Operator Report:

- The only problem we are currently having is with the cold weather. It makes the lagoons turn over and this happens every year. What happens is with cold weather, it kills everything floating on top of the surface and it sinks to the bottom. In return our filter is sucking a lot of it in and clogging more often than usual. The second is with the amount of rain falling, we are seeing larger amounts of flows and run times. It is typical but we will need to watch it carefully for major flows. Meaning there is too much getting in our system.
